IV. Notification of Results of the Preliminary Review of Application Qualifications

Applicants will be notified of the results on June 24 (Wed.), 2020.

Concerning Long-Term Study Students (information for first-year students)

“Long-term study students” refers to students who—in consideration of their employment situation or other factors—have been permitted to complete their academic coursework over a fixed period of time that is longer than the standard term of study (two years for master’s programs, three years for doctoral programs). Unlike ordinary students, individuals authorized for long-term study from the time of their enrollment may pay the tuition due for the standard term of study divided by the actual number of years they are enrolled.

You may apply for long-term study either at the time you enroll or later, but be aware that students who receive permission for long-term study in their second or third year will pay a higher tuition amount. (Applications for long-term study will not be accepted in the final year of study.)

1. Eligibility

Those who are eligible for long-term study are applicants to or students currently enrolled in this graduate school’s Division of Modern Economics and Management (excluding those in their final year of study under the standard term of study) who meet one of the following criteria:

- (1) Individuals who are engaged in full-time employment, such as those currently employed by government agencies or companies (excluding those receiving salaries while being on sabbatical/temporarily relieved of their work duties), and self-employed individuals
- (2) Individuals who are raising children, caring for family members, or facing similar burdens on par with that described in item (1) above, and deemed by the dean of the graduate school to be adversely affected by these circumstances, causing their graduate school studies to suffer

2. Application Procedures

Those who wish to apply for long-term study should submit the three documents listed below along with their admission application. The application form for long-term study can be obtained from the academic affairs coordinator office of the Graduate School of Economics and Business/School of Economics and Business.

- (1) Application for long-term study
- (2) Study plan
- (3) Materials verifying your reasons for needing long-term study approval (e.g., certificate of employment)

3. Application Results

After the application is reviewed, a decision will be made to approve or reject the application. Applicants will be notified of the results at the same time as the selection result.

4. Term of Study

Study periods for long-term study applicants are approved in one-year increments. A master’s course applicant may be approved for a three- or four-year term of study. A doctoral course applicant may be approved for a four-, five-, or six-year term of study.

5. Annual Tuition Amount

The annual tuition amount for long-term study students is generally calculated by multiplying the annual tuition amount by the number of years in the standard term of study, and then dividing that figure by the actual number of years the student will be enrolled. (The total tuition may end up higher than initially calculated due to tuition adjustments made over time, however.)

6. Shortening or Extending a Term of Study

If special circumstances arise, a long-term study student may request (only once) that his/her term of study be shortened or extended.

(1) Shortened term of study

The term of a long-term study student can be shortened upon approval to a minimum of three years for the master’s program and four years for the doctoral program (i.e., the standard term of study + one year).

A student who wants to shorten his/her long-term study by one year must submit and receive approval for a request to change a long-term study term up to two years prior to the day his/her long-term study is scheduled to end. (A doctoral student who wants to shorten his/her long-term study by two years must complete this procedure up to three years prior to the day his/her long-term study is scheduled to end.)

(2) Extended term of study

A long-term study student may extend his/her term of study. He/she must submit and receive approval for a request to change to a long-term study term up to one year prior to the day his/her long-term study is scheduled to end. The long-term study term may not exceed four years for master’s program students and six years for doctoral program students.

7. Other

To apply for long-term study, contact your prospective academic advisor in advance.

Global Economist Program

1. What is the Global Economist Program ?

Since our graduate school allies with three universities abroad on Double-Degree Program, students can receive the master's degree from both universities. To participate DDP, students are required to entry to the Global Economist Program.

2. Partner Universities

UNIVERSITY OF GOTHENBURG(Sweden)
NATIONAL TAIWAN UNIVERSITY(Taiwan)
YONSEI UNIVERSITY(Korea)

3. Eligibility

Those who are eligible for the Double Degree Program are students currently enrolled in doctoral course of the master's program, or students currently enrolled in the specialized course of the master's program and plan to submit the master theses in this graduate school.

4. Application Criteria:

In principle, applicants need to meet the following criteria (1) and (2).

Note) Applicants who wish to be sent to the university of Gothenburg need to meet the criteria(3) and (4) besides (1) and (2).

- (1) Those who are in doctoral course, or those who are in specialized course and planning to submit the master thesis.
- (2) Those who get the following score; TOEFL-iBT above 80, TOEFL-PBT above 550, IELTS above 6.0, or TOEIC above 730.
- (3) Those who have acquired "more than 8 credits related to Statistics", or "more than 4 credits related to Statistics and more than 4 credits related to Mathematics".
- (4) Those who meet the following criteria ① or ②
  - ① Those who have acquired more than 32 credits related to Economics and 4 credits of Econometrics(or something familiar) .
  - ② Those who've got the a bachelor degree of Mathematics or Engineering(Based on a quantitative or mathematical thinking).

※The application criteria is different from the partner universities, also, there is a possibility that those criteria will be changed. Please contact to the academic affairs office to get the latest information.
